Training Methodology

The trainer uses real case situations to illustrate the different topics where participants work on an online platform to apply the trading strategies after forecasting and evaluating the market and its inherent risk.

A practical approach is conducted in analyzing different charts of commodities, currencies and stock markets, in addition to the main economic indicators. At the end of this program, participants will be able to forecast the future movement of the market and take the appropriate positions.

Trading performance of each participant will be assessed, since he has to justify his trading decisions during the whole seminar experience going until 2 weeks following the completion of the program.

About The Speaker: Jihad El Hokayem

Leading Chief financial market strategist approved by six gulf international televisions.

Forecasted live on TV the crash of Gold in 2013, oil prices collapse & fluctuation intervals in 2014. Among his major realizations is the anticipation in September 2007 of the degree the Euro might have reached despite the new all-time high levels.

Hosted by both CNN and the American Chamber of Commerce. Currently, the only sworn Financial Market Expert before the Lebanese Courts.

Useful seminar to understand the complexity of the financial markets and to interpret the technical charts in order to better forecast the future price movement. I strongly recommend managers with financial responsibility, accountants, investors, traders and analysts seeking a refresher in market analysis, or any person willing to better understand the financial markets to participate.
